UPS

Connected Community

Since our founding in 1907, UPS has built a legacy by not only investing in our business, but by investing in our communities. It's a way of life and a part of our culture. In fact, our founder Jim Casey believed so strongly in this, he established company policies to specifically address corporate citizenship and charitable giving – giving that goes beyond writing a check.

You see, we're more than UPS employees. We are your neighbors. We live and work in your community, and we are dedicated to volunteering time, sharing knowledge and donating funds to make it better. At UPS, there's a culture that supports community service, helping us harness our collective effort in ways that make a real difference around the globe. That's why we recently pledged to complete 20 million hours of global volunteerism and community service by the end of 2020.

Throughout 2015, UPSers, with their friends and family, donated 2.35 million hours of volunteer service. More than three hundred thousand of those hours were recorded in October as part of our Global Volunteer Month—a time when UPS promotes organized opportunities for employees to help reach specific goals. Community service also plays an integral role in our immersive Community Internship Program and The UPS Foundation Local Grants Program.

500 Volunteers from 18 Companies Join Forces to Participate in a Combined Service Project in Orange County

Santa Ana, California, May 21, 2016 –Children and families from KidWorks will be joined by 500 volunteers as they work together to beautify the Santa Ana neighborhood community. On Saturday, May 21, 2016, volunteers will promote community health, education and safety as they contribute to a series of beautification projects and a community resource fair. Over the course of approximately three hours, volunteers from 18 of Orange County’s top companies will pitch in to complete projects that serve KidWorks, Madison Elementary School, Madison Park and Cedar Evergreen communities of Santa Ana.

This is the fourth, company-combined volunteer project that has been planned and executed by Corporate Volunteer Council of Orange County (CVCOC), a member network of companies committed to employee volunteerism. The CVCOC was launched in January 2012 by OneOC, a nonprofit 501c3 organization committed to accelerating nonprofit success through volunteer, giving, training, consulting and business services.

“The Love Santa Ana Initiative is proud to partner with KidWorks, CVCOC, and the City of Santa Ana on a successful community beautification day,” says Erika Carranza Benavides, Event Director with Love Santa Ana. “As a collaborative of local churches launched two years ago to strengthen the Santa Ana community we’re happy to be able to: organize the event’s resource fair, lead various beautification projects alongside CVCOC members, and most importantly to support local residents as they build on the efforts accomplished on that day and work toward long-term community revitalization.”

Volunteer groups will beautify targeted areas to create a clean and peaceful environment, paint murals and remove graffiti. A local artist will also be on hand to paint a mural with community assistance as multiple building and painting projects are completed by volunteers. Community health projects will provide physicals for children and encourage drug-free living. From car seats to bicycle safety, the local police department and volunteers will promote the importance of safety awareness. Additionally, the Madison Elementary School library will undergo restoration. New books will replace old ones during reorganization and cleaning of the library. A “reading challenge” for students will promote literacy and education.

“We are so excited about the Corporate Volunteer Project on May 21st. It is amazing to see so many corporations and volunteers come together to help our students, families and our community. We are working together to show our students and families how much education is valued,” says Lisa Gonzales-Solomon, Principal at Madison Elementary School. “Our community garden will help not only to educate our children but will bring our community together to learn about growing healthy foods and health education. We want to thank everyone involved for showing our kids and our community how much you care.”

“KidWorks is all about restoring at-risk neighborhoods one life at a time,” says David Benavides, Executive Director with KidWorks. “The corporate and church volunteers who are here today will be helping support our community as we work together to improve the futures of children and families who live in one of our city’s most challenged neighborhoods.”

The Kids Carnival/Resource Fair in the park includes games and a bounce house for younger children. LOVE Santa Ana joins in with their community resource fair. Taco Bell will serve lunch to the community and volunteers from 10:30 a.m. to noon. Lunch will be provided volunteers for free and will receive wrist bracelets for identification.

Participating companies include BJ's Restaurant, Cummins Pacific, Disneyland Resort, Edwards Lifesciences, First American Title Insurance, Kaiser Permanente, Macy's, PAAMCO, Pacific Dental Services, Pacific Life, PIMCO Foundation, Ricoh Electronics, Taco Bell, TaxAudit.com, UnitedHealthcare, UPS, US Bank, and Western Digital.
